ther to say that, if, in 1842 or 1846, claims as strong as those which were given away on our northern frontier by Mr. Tyler and Mr. Polk had existed on our southern border, they would have been promptly maintained at the cannon's mouth, under the old cry of "indemnity for the past and security for the future."

While regretting that our Government did not stand for its extreme rights both in the north-east and the north-west, I would not attempt to force annexation or acquisition of territory in any direction; but at the same time I most frankly avow that

THE INCORPORATION OF THE BRITISH-AMERICAN PROVINCES IN OUR UNION WOULD BE A VAST

ADDITION TO OUR STRENGTH. and a large element added to our growth and perpetuity. No maulier, stronger, abler, better portion of the Anglo-Saxon race can be found on the globe than those who inhabit the Dominion of Canada. They are not at present contemplating any union with us, nor are we making the alightest overtures towards them; but the continual growth of mutual interests, the quickened and quickening influence of constant intertinual growth of mutual interests, the quicken-ed and quickening influence of constant inter-course, will, in my judgment, ultimately bring us together. Our relations with them daily grow more intimate. We are drawn toward each other by a thousand ties of interest, friendship, and kindred, and the outpouring of our sympa-thy for their lately stricken city is but an ex-pression of the kindly regard we feel for their entire people.

In my remarks I have been compelled to speak of the North and the South as in a certain sense antagonistic forces in our Government. It is not my speaking of this autagonism that creates it, nor would the fact cease to exist if every man in nor would the fact cease to exist if every man in the North should keep silent. Nor will it be removed by efficie or carry on Decoration Day, nor by swelling periods on the Fourth of July. It has its deep-scated origin in different phases of civilization, and in radically different views of the functions, powers, and limits of the State and National Governments. It is deeply to be regretted that it has grown up. I hope that it will sometime die out. The North and the South, just as much as the East and the West, are fitted by nature for barmonious co-operation and for mutual development and strength. I would include all sections in the folds of a common patriotism, inspired by a single aim, warmed by triotism, inspired by a single aim, warmed by the same traditions, stimulated by like pride, looking forward to one destiny. But we should gain nothing—nay, we should lose a great deal —by concealing from ourselves the fact that the controlling political element in the South holds views which are at war with the prestige and controlling political element in the South holds views which are at war with the prestige and prosperity of the American Union. I speak it here to-day in sorrow, and not in anger, and yet I could not be just to my convictions if I should fail to speak it plainly. The remedy is in the hands of that vast majority of our countrymen who believe that their paramount allegiance is due to the National Government, and who hold with Washington that with Washington, that

"THE UNION OF THE STATES should ever be the primary object of patriotic should ever be the primary object of particle desire."

The consolidated strength of the sixteen States that were lately slave-holding is a tremendous political force, embodying almost one-half the Senate of the United States, more than one-third of the House of Representatives, and about two-fifths of the aggregate electoral college. This entire element is controlled by a small minority of the people of those States; it will be wielded in the future with the unity of despoting and it sims at permanent domination in the wielded in the future with the unity of despot-ism, and it aims at permanent domnaition in the government of the country. Let us look the fu-ture squarely in the face; prepare for file danger in season, and avert it if possible. I take my po-sition without hesitation, without distrust, with-out acrimony, and without concealment. I be-lieve that the Southern control in the govern-ment of the Union is the worst possible result, even for the South itself. I believe that it is menacing and dangerous to every interest in the land; I believe that the men who in battle and in council saved the Union should govern it; I land; I believe that the men who in battle and in council saved the Union should govern it; I believe that the men who for four years sought the life of the nation should not be intrusted with its supreme coutrol; I believe that the beresy of the citizen's primary allegiance being due to his State—a heresy which has already wrought so much misery and shed so much blood—should be confined to the States that cherish it, and so the permitted to install itself in the Government of the nation; and, finally, I believe that any policy which contemplates, or by any possibility involves, the annexation of Mexican territory or any other addition to the disturbed elements of the South, is at war with the highest interests of every American citizen, of the generations which, in the Providence of God, shall succeed to our proud title and to its continually widening responsibilities.

The Kansas Chief.

SOL. MILLER, ..... Editor.

TROY, KANSAS:

Thursday, ::::: July 19, 1877.

IT IS WORKING .- Last year, we told the Peter Cooper men that they were fooling away their votes, and could never accomplish their object by voting that ticket. It turns out just as we said. The question is working itself out. At the dictation of the Eastern capitalists. President Grant and Congress killed the currency bill, and passed an act for resumption in 1879, against the protests and appeals of the millions who were not bondholders and bankers. Hayes made the race for Governor on this issue, and was elected. It was put in the Republican National Platform, and Hayes went into office on that issue. Hayes claims that his Southern policy is in accordance with the platform, which is not true; but when it comes to an issue that was squarely made in the platform, he backs down on it, in order to save the party in Ohio from defeat, as a conse quence of his Southern Policy. While this illustrates the honesty and consistency of the man, it is a God-send to the people. John Sherman, an Ohio Senator, and now Secretary of the Treasury, fraudulently secured a clause in an act demonetizing silver. Recently it was proclaimed by leading Republicans of Ohio, that the remonetization of silver was necessary to save the party in Ohio, and straightway Hayes took water on that question. Now, the Resumption organs, from the Cincinnati Gazette down, abandoning their former platforms, and retreating from their hightoned specie doctrines, are raising the clamor that the only way to save the country from ruin and the party in Ohio from defeat, is to repeal or postpone the Resumption act. And Hayes, willing to do anything to escape the consequences of his own treachery, will favor that also. From the present outlook, the Republicans of Chio are doomed to disastrous defeat, from which nothing can save them-and Mr. Hayes, with his treason to the Republicans of the South, and the humbug that he calls Civil Service Reform, is responsible for it all. But it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. This result will rid the country of Stanley Matthews, and hasten the day of greenbacks.

A subscriber in New York, renewing his subscription, says: "Give Hayes' Southern policy fits, and oblige me." We are doing the best we can in that line. Scores of our subscriber tell us the same thing, and not one has yet advised to the contrary. This same New York subscriber, a year ago, sent his hurrah for Hayes and told us to give it to Tilden. Guess we all feel that we have been sold.

We would mildly-wery mildly suggest to the Atchison Champion, that we did not gramble because it was the particular paper to make the suggestion relative to the Chief-Justiceshin but as the Champion so nearly accomplished the whole business, we thought it might as well finish up the thing. It so struck us, and we had to

Our Washington correspondent, this week, rather goes for T. B. Murdock, of the Walnut Valley Times. But it is only one side of the sto ry. We suppose that Bent. can set it all right with his side. At least, let us give him a chance.

The Leavenworth Press started out with the determination not to notice the Times, or pay any attention to it. We notice that it is carrying out the platform as is usual in such cases.

Is That the Best You Can De! That staunch organ of Hayes' Administration

the Troy Bulletia, last week had another very able editorial upon the President's Civil Service policy. What it says of Iowa, is scarcely worth noticing. A Convention that enthusiastically received Gov. Packard, and almost unanimously tabled resolutions endosing the President's Southern policy, spoke lond enough for the deaf to hear. If the Hayes advocates can gain any comfort from it, they can squeeze juice from the tire of a wagon-wheel. Kirkwood and Wilson were right in wishing to keep the question out of the Convention. It should be kept out of all Conventions; but if "My Policy" men will insist upon bringing it in, they must grin and bear the result. We shall never advise that it be brought into a Republican Convention of Kansas; but if it is forced in, we have no doubt as to the repart of the editorial of this able Hayes organ In the wind-up of its mighty effort, it says that the Government office-holders in Kansas all en-dorse the President, and that almost every other leading Republican in the State would, if an office were tendered him; and in the very next sentence it says, that if the Government office holders had not overridden the voice of the Republicans of this District, a man of ability, integrity, and moral worth, would now represent the District, in place of Col. Phillips. The logical inference is, that the men who endorse Hayes, are the roughs who pack Conventions, overridthe wishes of the people, and outrage the principles of honesty and decency. We shall no dispute the proposition. But it naturally follows, that when the President succeeds in silene ing the office-holders, he wipes out the Hayes party in Kansas.

We feel justified in presuming, from the tone of the aforesaid able editorial, that at least one "infinential" Republican in Kansas bases his support of Hayes upon the hope that he may still get an office-that of United States Marshal. As he failed to get elected to the Legislature, for the avowed purpose of selling his vote for Senator to the candidate who would promise him the Marshalship, it is very likely that he will have to wait until the office-holders are muzzled, and until a man of ability, integrity and moral worth is elected to Congress in place of Col. Phillips.

THE "REFORMER."-The New York Sun pub lishes fac similes of two certificates of deposits of $5,000 each, in the Second National Bank of New York, by Zach, Chandler, last September-money collected of office-holders for political purposes. On the back is the order of Chandler to pay the money to R. B. Hayes, and the endorsement of Hayes, in his own hand, upon receiving the money. After using money collected by assessments upon office-holders, with a full knowledge of the fact, to aid in his own election, it is appropriate that he should issue orders against assessments for political purposes. It is of a piece with refusing to recognize and aid the officers of a State Government, after himself stepping into office through the same fraud upon which their title was contested. He holds the power to "reform" fraud and corruption, through those very same frauds and corruptions.

IF It is a little remarkable, that whenever i new paper is started in a town where there is an old-established paper, the former imagines that it is just slaughtering the latter fearfully. They always have a set number of subscribers that the old paper has lost in a given length of time. A couple of weeks ago, the concern up over the sa-loon announced that the Chief's list had fallen off two hundred since that affair started; and about the same time, the Leavenworth Press meanest part of it is, that the papers that are gates? osing so heavily don't seem to mind it a bit.

13 National Banks are going up like rockets. Scarcely a day passes, but we have reports of one or more suspensions. Those National Banks are what were designed to give the people a currency instead of the greenbacks. As the National Bank issues are secured by a deposit of Government bonds, and the people are taxed to pay interest on the bonds, it has never been satisfac torily explained why Government itself should not issue the money, and save interest. The United States Government never fails or suspends. Securing the notes of somebody else, and paying for the privilege, is poor economy.

A few weeks ago, we noticed the receipt of a handbill making certain charges against D. R. Anthony. He has just sued a number of persons for libel, for issuing and circulating this dbill. Among them, are United States Marshal Miller and P. H. Coney. There is evidently more malice in the suit than in the handbill. Anthony abused F. P. Baker without stint, for arresting men for libelling him; but now that he is the ox that is gored, we suppose it makes all the difference in the world. He values his character at $20,000. We predict he won't get 20 publish an address, formally abandoning the Republican organization in that State. They say that they have 30,000 majority in the State, but, endorsing the policy of Hayes, and desiring peace above party, they yield to the minority, and henceforth will not be known as a party in politics. We wonder whether this terrible thrust will pierce through Haves' hide, or whether he will receive it as a compliment and an endorsement of his policy?

The Republicans of South Carolina are entirely justifies Republicans in opposing Hayes, for having betrayed the party that elected him.

George T. Anthony is already being put in training for the United States Senatorship But it's a complaint that every man gets, who is elected Governor. However, only one has ever succeeded, and he is deader than if he had failed

IF It is said that ex-Marshal Pitkin has a finger in the overhanling of the Louisiana Returning Board, and that Ben. Butler is behind the scenes. If Butler is there, the thing will be interesting before it is through with.

The war of disappointed office-seeken upon Hayes," is the way the upholders of "My Policy" put it. Are three-fourths of the Republicans of the North and all the Republicans the South disappointed office-seekers?

E. H. Itch is the name of a Toledo attor ney. When he gets after a man, we suppose he is worse than the seven-years' itch.

AN INTERVIEW.-Sloshing around, the other day, with a powerful magnifying glass, trying to find a Hayes man in Doniphan County besides the talented editor of the Bulletia, (see his editorials,) we were told that Col. D. M. Johnston was a Hayes man. Knowing him for a life-long and consistent Democrat, under all circumsta ces, we ventured to interview him; and as he is very approachable and sociable, we found no difficulty in breaking the ice. "Colonel," said we, "they say you are a Hayes

Hayes man, and endorse his policy."

"I suppose, then, if the election were to be seld over, that you, with the present light before you, would vote for him !" "Pog on it!" (the Colonel is a strict church nember, and the hardest language he uses is 'dog on it.") "Dog on it! why do you always talk about voting? I didn't say I would vote for him, but that I endorse his policy. As you Republicans swindled us out of Tilden, I am rilling to use Hayes to carry out Tilden's pol

"Then, it is his dividing the Republican party that you endorse ?"

"I endorse his Civil Service Reform. The bes thing he has done, is to prohibit office-holders from taking part in politics. I only wish he would go a little further, and prohibit every dog on'd Republican office-holder from voting, ther we Democrats could best you, every time. Ha! And that's the way Democrats endorse Haves

The wrost time was in Montrea where the Catholics attacked the Orangemen. killing several. One man was killed while res uing a woman from the mob. At his funeral, on Monday, another disturbance occurred, in which the Catholics killed a boy. In these 12th of July riots, the Catholics are not wholly to blame. The battle of the Boyne was a disastrons defeat of the Irish Catholics. Celebrating th victory, is in the nature of crowing over and taunting the descendants of the defeated. It would make almost anybody mad, especially hery fellows like the Irish. An attempt to glori fy on the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run or of the assassination of Lincoln, would cause a riot in any city in the North.

LF'A rumor prevailed, last week, that, in view of the threatened exposures in Louisiana, Hayes contemplated resigning the Presidency. The news is too good to be true. But, having confessed, by his acts, that he was fraudulently placed in the office, the best thing he can do is to resign. Then Wheeler would become President. He has made no such admission, and he would give the country what it thought it was getting when Hayes came into office-a Republican Administration.

We are glad to see that the Atchison Champion is gradually getting warmed up against the Southern Policy and the Civil Service humbug of the fraud who occupies the White House-the Democrats swear he is a fraud, and the Republicans know he is a fraud upon them. The Champion is usually slow to cut loose from the powers that be, but when it does get loose, t goes it. We are also glad to hear that Senate Igalls' head is level on this subject.

When the Bulletin charges that Federal office-holders crowded out true Republicans, at the Congressional Convention, and nominated man without honesty or ability, isn't it rathe rough on its "old friend," B. S. Campbell, and made the announcement that the Tisses had lost its warm friends generally at Highland, who two hundred subscribers in a week. CORRESPONDENCE.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9th, 1877. ED. CHEF:—In my peregrinations in and about this city, I frequently pick up singularly curions specimens of national legislators' work, in advancing some personal or special interest. The Murdock fam-ily seem to be in continual good luck, not only in drop to the members of it seemingly as natural a lead ripe fruit yields to centripetal force. It is perhaps the more safe to come into this world under ncky star of some divination order, forcordaining life a happy and successful one, than to be born with a gold spoon between your gums. Perhaps in no place in Washington. He is invariably on the top. This is proven in our politics, in the emoluments of office, and in special subsidy. There are thousands of men bruised, mangled, and diseased from service in the late war, who are entitled to a pension, but lacking nfinence, cannot obtain it. The following case wish to refer your readers to, so they may know or what flimsy evidence some pensions are granted. The following is a true copy of the evidence, as reported by Senator John J. Ingalls, in support of the pension claim of Hon. Thomas B. Murdock, of Eldorade Kansas, and upon which testimony a pension was granted, approved March 3d, 1877:

Mr. Ingalls submitted the following

Mr. Ingalis submitted the following REPORT:

[To accompany bill S. 750.]
The Committe on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill
(S. 750) granting a pension to Thomas B. Mardock, report:

The Republicans of South Carolina are preparing to abandon their organization, and henceforth will take no part in politics. All is so peaceful and quiet, since Hayes' policy went into operation, that it is no longer of any use for the Republicans of that State to express or voto their sentiments. The President can now find an abundance of good material among the Republicans of the South to appoint to offices—they will not violate his orders by mixing in politics.

13 Lieutenant-Governor M. J. Salter has been appointed Register of the Land Office at Independence. This will make a vacancy to be filled at the next general election. In order to save the expense of a Convention, and to facilitate the matter, we suggest that the State Central Committee be called together, and nominate the editor of the Kansas Chief to fill the vacancy. Wouldn't he and George T. Anthony make a good team?

15 The Leavenworth Times, a Hayes organ, edited by a Poetmaster, and presumed to speak by anthority, rebukes Democrats for opposing Hayes. It says that Hayes is carrying out the principles of the Tilden platform, and is therefore entitled to the support of Democrats. This entirely justifies Republicans in opposing Hayes.

15 The Leavenworth Times, a Hayes organ, edited by a Poetmaster, and presumed to speak by anthority, rebukes Democrats for opposing Hayes. It says that Hayes is carrying out the principles of the Tilden platform, and is therefore entitled to the support of Democrats. This entirely justifies Republicans in opposing Hayes, for having herrards the past for harmonic many desired the vacancy with Mardeck and the string of the claim, and therefore report the bill to the service entitled to the support of Democrats. This entirely justifies Republicans in opposing Hayes.

Mr. Murdock may be entitled to a pension, but not on the evidence above furnished. If you will examine the testimony closely, you will see there is little or no evidence to base a claim, for pension. Service is about the only thing proved. There is no record ev idence of this alarming disability of claimant while in the service, and Messrs. Madden and Watson do ot do more than make a general statement. The latter's evidence proves nothing but service, and that Murdock was temperate in his habits. No army phy-sician testifies as to Murdock's soundness when he entered the service, the nature and origin of the dis-case, or when and where, or the probable date when the disease was contracted. No physician makes any statement—much less an affidavit—during the last twelve years, as to the pensioner's eyes, or the treat-ment of them; and there is not a farthing of evidence showing whether the said Murdock contracted blind-ness "in the line of duty" or not. This is a most re markable case. At least a half dozen Kansas men, now in this city, claim to be intimately acquainted with Mr. Murdeck, State Scuator and editor of the Eldorado Times, and they are much surprised to hear that he is blind. Mr. Ingalls no doubt endeavored to do a good thing for him, and the motive very naturaldo a good thing for him, and the motive very naturally might be traced to the fact that the pensioner holds a vote in the Kansas Senate in 1879. I do not say that such is the motive, but there is the brondest room for such suspicion. If Mr. Ingalls and his committee are granting pensions on this class of evidence, then about the only thing necessary to establish in a pension claim, is service; and should this case prove to be a fair specimen, then your humble servant is entitled to one—not, however, or himdness.

entitled to one-not, bowever, on blindness. entitled to one—not, however, on blindness.

Numerons cases come to my mind of crippled and maimed soldiers hovering around the Senate Pension Committee-room, petitioning for pensions, who are unable to get a hearing, much less a pension. Mr. George A. Schreiner, a one-armed soldier, losing his right arm in the battle of Lexington, under Col. Multican in 1861 can give account testimony as to the ligan, in 1861, can give some testimony as to the treatment Mr. Ingalls usually gives worthy claimants applying for pensions at the threshold of the Senate Committee of Pensions. When Mr. Schreiner requested Mr. Ingalls to aid him, the distinguished enator sat back on his dignity, and wouldn't do any thing for him. If Schreiner had been a State Scnaor, he might have had better success.

A Card. I have received a letter from the preacher in charge of the M. E. Church, Troy station, warning me and my friends in Doniphan not to say anything in defence of my character, on pain of his publish occedings of the trial, and also the trial of seventeer cars ago. Now, all this is rather cool; but as the hermometer is rather high, it may warm up a little. It has been said, and truly, that Vaticanism is not confined to the Romish Church. Every man has a Pope in himself; his own infallible ideas prompt him to issue bulls of excommunication against all who dare to oppose his mandates. Happily for us, the nine eenth century and American liberty are safeguard from the spirit and practices of the Spanish Inquisi-tion; and the defendant and his friends in Doniphan sleep just as soundly as if the threatening bull has never reached their ears. Nevertheless, a discerning public will not fail to see the venom of the serper though they may not see the harmlessness of the dove The defendant has no objection to have all his deed hung out before the world, believing the record to b clearer than that of his enemies; but if they must and will publish his name to the world, they must be coutent to receive back heavier coin than they is

Will the editor of the Chief allow a short space is ps valuable sheet in answer to "Junius," who seems highly gratified at the result of Mr. Leak's trial !- and well he might, for his church had sunk so low by the scandal, that nothing short of killing off their former preacher could possibly raise it-a novel method, t be sure; but when the brain lever fails in its legitinate work, it must have recourse to some stratagem o attain its object. Such was the ease in getting up this trial. A member of the church gets mad, an breatens to leave the church, because his daughter had sunk her reputation, and brought disgrace on his family. The preacher in charge, as was his duty, inquires his reason for leaving, and he brings out an old etter of a year and a half standing, purported to have been written by the defendant, as the instrument o is daughter's disgrace. Said daughter was ther prought under a little wholesome discipline, and in-errogated by father and preacher as to other little natters, or words that had been done or said by the efendant, hence came out the batch of falsehoods that appear in the specifications. Baker on the Discipline says that a specification wast neither rise above nor fall below the charge; yet the charge of immoral ity was made, though the specifications, had they all been true, at the ntmost could only sustain imprulence. Not a single law of the Decalogue was sh o have been violated, in the articles setting forth the harge. The mighty array of witnesses, so conspicu ous in "Junius's" imagination, were, first, the father of the ruined girl, whose brain was so confused that he could remember nothing distinctly; yet his "thought so," his "opinion," and his "don't know exactly," were all taken as prima facic evidence. The next witness called was a medical brother, whose evidence might have sunk a mill-stone; who positively affirmed that he asked the defendant, one bitter cold night, to go home with him, but he (the defendant) immorally re-fused, and would go with the father of the girl—for the reader must understand that the defend once went home with the girl alone at night. Next came a lady from the far-off city of Chicago, and went to said girl, who had been acquainted with her from during the past ten years, and notwithstanding the deceit the said girl had practiced on her mother, and every one clsc, she was competent to sustain her veracity. Then walked to the witness seat the stately bysician, whose keen eve detected, at the birth of the child, "the very image of its father," whom he doubt-ess thought to be the defendant. But as that did not go, then he had an opinion that defendant took too much interest in said girl; for be (defendant) came to is house with her, to have her lungs examined, and t being a cold morning, the defendant told her to wrap up warm, as she went back. This was another proof of immorality. But the climax was reached when the venerable, gray-headed sire, perhaps the oldest of the church, took the seat, and gravely testified that he saw defendant, on the 4th of July, 1876 the Court House yard, in the middle of the day with several hundred people around, sitting on the end of one seat, and said girl sitting on another seat, with the defendant's hand resting on her hand, and onversing with her; that he saw defendant get up and walk away, and after some time, return and talk again. Now, if all this array of testimony was not sufficient to prove immorality, what could have done it! But I must stop here, as I fear it may take too much space for one week. If I am permitted, I will give the rest next week. THE DEFENDANT.
